Hi Matt and Tom,

Hope you both are doing well. This seems like a good time to check in with you on the ESA timeline and the Reg Review Risk Assessments. Are we expecting to see those soon? Any revised timelines?

Also good timing because I wanted to let you know that Jack Cain (cc'd here) will be taking over methomyl responsibilities from me. Leading up to our potential/probable merge with Dow, I am taking over the manager role of the US Registration group at DuPont. I know Tom will remember Jack and note that Jack had methomyl some years back so he will be up to speed quickly. Plus I'm still here in the group if any questions arise.

Thanks for any updates you can provide.

Pat

P.S. Tom – So our Phillies sure are struggling this year! Not a good year to be a Phillies fan! But at least you have your Nationals as consolation!

Hi Pat-

I hope all is well. We are still on track to complete the ESA assessment in April, but the HED Reg Review PRA is getting pushed back until June. Both documents would likely get posted at the same time in June.

Thanks,

Matt

Hi Matt and Tom,

Hope you are both doing well. We are still business as usual here until we hear merger news which is anticipated in the summer.

Just wanted to see if anything had changed on the timing of the methomyl registration review assessments and/or the endangered species BE.

Are you still hearing March for the registration review risk assessments and April for the ESA?

Thanks for any updates you might have.

Pat

Hi Pat-

I double checked with the EFED team. The only 'hard and fast' date is the Dec. 2018 date for the final Biological Opinion (that is the court-ordered date). The other dates should be considered estimated dates... but they are correct for what we are aiming for.

The HED document is planned to go out in March with the rest of the RAs going out that quarter, and the ESA assessment will likely have its own FR notice in April.

Thanks,
Matt

Thanks, Matt.

So that is different than what I was thinking. I thought everything but the endangered species BE would be publishing in December 2016. Sounds like we might not see anything until April 2017. Which is fine!

Thanks for checking for me.

Hi Pat-

The HED document won't go out until the endangered species assessment does. I'm checking with EFED on the rest of it.

Thanks,

Matt

Hi Tom and Matt,

I'm writing to check my understanding of the timeline for methomyl registration review draft documents and the endangered species schedule. I think I have this right based on our recent meeting/discussions but a colleague asked me to double check based on something he heard at an industry meeting.

December 2016 - Registration Review draft risk assessments – 90 day comment period?

I assume this will include draft Human Health and drinking water risk assessments, etc.

April 2017 – draft Biological Evaluation – 60 day comment period?

December 2017 – final Biological Evaluation

April 2018 – draft Biological Opinion – 60 day comment period

December 2018 – final Biological Opinion

Please let me know if I am way off on any of these.

Thanks,

Pat
